

At the heart of the economic and industrial recovery

The environment takes center stage at GLOBAL INDUSTRIE

At this time of the ecological and energy transition and the recovery plan funds earmarked for it, GLOBAL INDUSTRIE is going greener than ever in 2021. The Lyon edition of the exhibition, which will take place at Eurexpo Lyon in 2021, will be an ideal opportunity to come and meet the main players in the sector and attend several events, particularly conferences, which will be specifically dedicated to it.

The energy and ecological transition, a priority for recovery

Thirty billion Euros, i.e. one third of the funds of the recovery plan set up by the government, will be devoted to the ecological transition. This illustrates the importance placed on ecology and on the economic opportunities offered by the energy efficiency, transport and energy generation sectors. This “green plan” aims to encourage a new growth model based on a low-carbon economy, energy saving and green innovations.

At the round table devoted to Industrial Territories, organized on the 2nd of July as part of GLOBAL INDUSTRIE Connect, several projects were unveiled.

A vast area entirely dedicated to the environment

While the environment has always been one of the exhibition’s priorities, GLOBAL INDUSTRIE 2021 in Lyon will include an area entirely dedicated to it in which a complete and expanded offer will be presented. This area will feature the main players in the sector, in fields as varied as:

- Air
- Instrumentation - metrology
- Water and waste water
- Pipes - Networks
- Pumps - Valves
- Waste treatment - Recycling and re-use
- Collection vehicles
- Sites and soil
- Lighting
- Energy – Energy recovery
- Smart grids
- Carbon management
- Mobility
- Institutions - Research
- Regional and international collectives
